

LONGFELLOW DEAD.

EAST MOMENTS OF THE GREAT POET.

Sketch of His Life and Works—The Family He Leaves Behind—His Arrangements for the Burial—What the English Journals Say.

Special to THE REPUBLICAN.
Boston, March 24.—Henry W. Longfellow, the poet, who has been in poor health for the past two years, died at quarter-past three p. m. to-day, at his home, in Cambridge, Mass. He had been suffering from a complication of complaints, but the illness which proved fatal was pneumonia, which set in last Saturday. He celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday February 27.

Longfellow was born in Portland, Me., February 27, 1807. He entered Bowdoin College at the age of fourteen, and graduated in 1825 with high honors. He studied law for a short time afterward, but abandoned the law for the practice of the legal profession, and proceeded to Europe to qualify himself for the discharge of the duties of a professorship of modern languages in the college before named, which had been offered him. In 1829 he returned and entered upon his professional work. His first substantive work, "Outre Mer," appeared in 1835, the year that he was appointed to the chair of literature and modern languages in Harvard University. In 1835 he again went to the Old World, and after a year spent in study of the languages of France, Germany and Italy, he returned to his alma mater, and was appointed to the chair of literature and modern languages in Harvard University. PERSONAL MENTION.

Movements in Society—Entertainments of Note—Dinners.

The assignment of Mr. John Tweedle to duties involving increased responsibility in the War Department has been the cause of much congratulation among his numerous friends in the Grand Army of the Republic, as well as elsewhere. General Tweedle is a member of Kit Carson Post.

Mr. William Jones, a prominent lawyer of Brooklyn, in Southern Indiana, is spending a few days on business in the city, stopping at 911 G street. He will remain until the early part of next week, when his law business will require his return. In politics he holds strongly to the Republican principles he fought so gallantly to maintain during the war, he having served with distinction in the Indiana regiment.

General S. B. Burdett, department commander G. A. R., has been suffering considerably of late from the effects of the influenza. Unless this should prevent him, he will deliver the address at the fifteenth anniversary of his post, Kit Carson, No. 2, at Masonic Temple, next Tuesday evening.

General Grant and Mrs. Grant were entertained at dinner last evening by General Beale, at his residence, there being present General and Mrs. Grant, Senator and Mrs. Logan, Mr. and Mrs. President Arthur, and other distinguished guests.

Senator and Mrs. Hale entertained at dinner last evening, at their residence, 1501 H street, Mr. and Mrs. John Jay, Mr. and Mrs. Bayard, Senator and Mrs. Logan, Congressmen and Mrs. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, and Mr. de Witt, of the Swedish legation.

Mr. Morgan, of New York, who is now in the city, will be in the city until the early part of next week, when his law business will require his return. In politics he holds strongly to the Republican principles he fought so gallantly to maintain during the war, he having served with distinction in the Indiana regiment.

FROM MELVILLE.

THE SEARCH FOR THE MISSING MEN.

Letter of Instructions to the Local Governor of the Siberian District in Which the Long and His Men Are Supposed to Be Located.

Secretary Hunt has received from Chief Engineer George W. Melville, under date of Yakutsk, Eastern Siberia, January 3, a copy of a letter of instructions to the local governor of the Siberian District in which the Long and his men are supposed to be located.

Therefore it is necessary that a more careful search be made on the high-ground bank from the river for a short distance as well as along the river bank. I examined many fine and small houses, but could not possibly examine all of them. Therefore it is necessary that all, every house large or small, be examined for books and papers or the remains of the party. Men without food and with little clothing naturally seek shelter in huts along the line of march, and I have seen many of these huts. They are made of wood or pile of wood and are erected near the river, if not on top of them. In case books and papers are found, they should be sent to the American Mission resident at Yakutsk. If they are found in time and can be forwarded to me before I leave Russia, forward them to me.

I wish to have access to the position, most convenient of access to Belah—also placed inside of a small house, arranged by side, for future recognition, but, then, securely closed and locked up with a key, and a note placed in the house, to inform the American Mission resident at Yakutsk, if they are found in time and can be forwarded to me before I leave Russia, forward them to me.
